Lee Mendelson Film Productions (LMFP) is thrilled to announce the first-ever release of Vince Guaraldi's complete soundtrack for "It's Arbor Day, Charlie Brown," the 15th animated Peanuts® special, from writer and creator Charles Schulz, director Phil Roman, and producers Bill Melendez and Lee Mendelson. Originally airing fifty years ago on March 16, 1976, on CBS-TV, the special went on to be nominated for the Emmy® for Outstanding Children's program.

The album also includes the first-ever release of Guaraldi's soundtrack for 1966's "Charlie Brown's All Stars!," the second animated Peanuts® special, a summer baseball-themed follow-up to 1965's "A Charlie Brown Christmas." It aired June 8, 1966 on CBS-TV, and was also nominated for the Emmy® for Outstanding Children's program. Both specials are currently available for streaming on Apple TV.

The full soundtrack album includes 24 tracks comprising the scores from both specials: 17 tracks from "Arbor Day," including two bonus alternate tracks of "Jay Sterling Morton Jazz" and "Happy Arbor Day Charlie Brown," and the "Charlie Brown's All Stars!" score mixed into 7 tracks. Both scores include "Rain, Rain, Go Away," one of the most beautiful compositions Guaraldi ever wrote, and through their book-ended presentation, allow the listener to experience the evolution of Guaraldi across the over ten years that he composed and performed for Peanuts®.

Also, out JANUARY 30th, 2026 – the first single off of the album: "Young Man's Fancy." This is the core theme from "It's Arbor Day, Charlie Brown." Guaraldi plays the lead melody on electric piano and adds harmony with his piano. This is a return to Guaraldi's traditional trio sound, but he adds and plays his ARP String Ensemble synthesizer.

"Rain, Rain, Go Away (Rain Gentle Rain)" on the "Arbor Day" album was one of the final songs Guaraldi ever recorded. Laid down on the afternoon of February 6, 1976 at Wally Heider Studio in San Francisco, he unexpectedly passed away while performing at Butterfield's in Menlo Park only a few hours later. Guaraldi was only 47. His music and legacy are preserved in the specials, and in his recordings.

Now 50 years later, you can hear his great compositions and performances from 13 years of making Peanuts® music, for the first time on record, CD, and in digital presentations of the music.

Across the two soundtracks, there are 24 tracks of music all composed and performed by Vince Guaraldi.

On "All Stars," Guaraldi is joined by the Vince Guaraldi Sextet: Guaraldi on piano, Eugene "Puzzy" Firth on bass, Eddie Duran on guitar, John Coppola and Frank Snow on trumpet, and Lee Charlton on drums. This was recorded at Sound Recorders in San Francisco on May 13, 1966.

Vince Guaraldi returns to his original jazz trio roots on “Arbor Day,” performing with the Vince Guaraldi Trio: Guaraldi on piano, Seward McCain on bass, and Jim Zimmerman on drums. Long time bass player Seward McCain returns to upright bass for this score. They recorded at Wally Heider Studios in San Francisco on January 28, February 3 and 6, 1976.

The soundtrack was produced by Sean Mendelson and Jason Mendelson; “Arbor Day” was mixed at WonderWorld Studio by Grammy® and Emmy® Award-Winning mixing engineer Clark Germain, and both “Arbor Day” and “All Stars” were restored and re-mastered by Vinson Hudson (who has mastered all the LMFP releases).

The 34-minute album will be available March 20, 2026, on 12” 33 RPM Black or Forest Green BioVinyl LP in a Gatefold Jacket, CD and digitally.

The CDs are made with a “Digipack Lite™” with eco-friendly ink, 16pt FSC® certified partially recycled board stock, and a re-sealable eco-bag. Additionally, the flexi-tray that holds the CD is made from repurposed water bottles and containers, and less paper overall was used relative to a standard digipak.

The physical copies include liner notes that give a track-by-track analysis by album producer Sean Mendelson, and notes from album producer Jason Mendelson, sons of legendary Peanuts® producer Lee Mendelson. Derrick Bang, Guaraldi biographer and author of “Vince Guaraldi at the Piano,” continues the tradition of providing an historical essay for both the special and the soundtrack. The liner notes (vinyl: 6 page and CD: 16-page booklet) contain images from the special, and rare photographs.

“Some standout hooks are present in [Guaraldi’s] melodies, but for the most part it’s a melancholic, straight-ahead jazz soundtrack.”

— From the liner notes by Sean Mendelson, producer of the album.

“Charles Schulz was particularly fond of [“It’s Arbor Day, Charlie Brown”]
